

CALIFORNIA HIGH-SPEED RAIL AUTHORITY LAUNCHES ONLINE SURVEY

Californians asked to help guide Web site redesign to keep public informed and engaged

We've designed a survey asking for feedback about how we can design a Web site tailored to provide the information most important to you and your community, and how you prefer to receive such information.

Your answers will help us redesign the CHSRA Web site, making it convenient for you to learn more about California's high-speed rail system as well as help you get involved in shaping the project in your community.

Do you Tweet? How do you get your news? Are you familiar with status of the high-speed rail project in your community? Please let us know how we can best share information on all things high-speed rail.

We're committed to providing comprehensive, current and accurate information about the state's high-speed train project, and we need your help in that process.
